Jordau, chairman of the City Executive Conservative Committee, and a body of sturdy Manchester yeomany. The citizens, aiready notried, will turn out. The citizens, aiready notriled, will turn out numerously, as they desire to make this meeting not only one of ratification of Daniel's nomination for Governor, but an old-time refinion of congenial elements. Manchester will be ablaze with exestement on the occasion. Captain Jordan witt call the meeting to order, and Judge William I. Clopton will preside on the occasion.

The delegates from this city elected on Tuesday night are as follows: First Ward-P. W. Hudgius, M. R.

Hull Street.—The pavement of Hull street is composed of cobble stone, and was placed in position about thurty-five years ago. It is the only pavement the street ever had during the course of a long existence. Beduring the course of a long existence. Before the paying Hull street, though bearing that designation, was more commonly known as the "County road," leading as it did from the southern end of Mayo's bridge into the Petersburg turppike. Hull street is now and must always remain the principal business thoroughfare of the city, is about two miles long, and would be with suitable grading and Beiglan pavement a most presentable avenue. The cobble-stone with which it was adorned thirty-five years ago was contracted for by Messrs. C. & N. Green, famous old-time Richmond stonemasons and horsemen. They did a good job of work. horsemen. They did a good job of work. Time shows this. Their superintendent (who assisted in the work also) was Mr. John B. Davis, now a prominent citizen, banker, and agriculturist of Richmond.

Richmond Cedar- Works .- This industry was never more active than at present. The amount of production is only controlled by the supply of water, unluckily short for some time past. A new feature in production is the making of casks and runlets out of oak by machinery. The latter cost a considerable sum of money, and required many experiments before it could be made many experiments before the data to work. At last the proper point was attained, and now casks all the way from one half to ten gallons can be fabricated from red oak, hitherto disused or allowed to rot. The casks are of the most substantial character, bound with iron, and would seem capable of lasting indefinitely. So far but few have been made, but their production will be made an object in future at the Porcelain Works.—Three car-loads of ma-chinery intended for the new porcelain-works, located between the Petersburg Rail-road bridge and the Free bridge, on the road bridge and the Free bridge, on the Manchester side, arrived several days since, and seven car-loads additional are daily expected. Those first coming have not yet been unpacked, owing to delay in progress of the building intended for their reception. The machinery contracted for involves an expenditure of $15,000. The building will be reception to the product of the product burried to completion as rapidly as possi-ble. Should the kaolin prove suitable (and the company owns extensive beds of it near Bon Air), the manufactory about to be iuitiated will be of great benefit both to Man-chester and Richmond, and Virginia as well. It will develop a hitherto dormant

BICHMOND, September 10, 1881.

Dear Dispatch: Will you please publish
Hist of the Governors of Virginia from the Revolution to the present time, and the years they served; and, if convenient, their ages when inaugurated?

Respectfully, That is asking too much. It seems to us that it would be enough to ask of us to print the statement after it had been prepared. It would require perhaps a whole day to prepare it for the press.

A Favorite Western Sport. LAWRENCE, MAN., September 10 - The greatest sporting event that ever took place to the West was the twenty-mile equestrian race between Miss Crockett Hill, of Kansas, and Miss Nelle Archer, of Missouri, for $18,000 and the championship of Kansas and Missouri, which occurred at the Western National Fair at Bismarck Grove to-day. The race was won by half a length by Miss Archer. Time, forty-six minutes- the best ever made in a twenty mile race. On necount of the closeness of the contest and the great sectional feeling among the spectators the exchement was most intense. The race was mitnessed by 20,000 people. For several minutes after the finish there was an impression in the growd shot Min. was an impression in the crowd that Mise Hill had won the race; and Miss Archef's mother, when erroneously told that her daughter had lost, fainted away, and was with difficulty revered. The betting was the West, and fully $100,000 changed hands.

Abraham Ludlow is the prohibition candidate for Governor of Ohio. As soon as he was nonmated the story appeared that he manufactured elder-presses, which, we believe, is true. A few days later he was announced as a manufacturer of elder; then as a large dealer in wine and elder; and at this rate, before-election-day we may expect to read that he owns three large breweries, runs an lifeit whickey atili, killed his wife in a fit of delirium tremens, and is under bail for selling liquor without a license. These campaign run ors will grow, and you can't stop it.—Norris, own Herald.
